Geologic modelling, geological modelling or geomodelling is the applied science of creating computerized representations of portions of the Earth's crust based on geophysical and geological observations made on and below the Earth surface. A geomodel is the numerical equivalent of a three-dimensional geological map complemented by a description of physical quantities in the domain of interest.

Geology describes the structure of the Earth on and beneath its surface, and the processes that have shaped that structure. It also provides tools to determine the relative and absolute ages of rocks found in a given location, and also to describe the histories of those rocks. [citation needed] By combining these tools, geologists are able to chronicle the geological history of the Earth as a ...

The Oklahoma Geological Survey does not have a database for oil and gas production and well data for the state of Oklahoma. Public access to these data is provided by the Oklahoma Corporation Commission, although these data are not complete. The most complete sources of data are available from pay-for-use providers such as Drillinginfo and IHS Energy.
