integrated circuits with radiation-patterned sub-micron dimensions. The present trends regarding radiation chemistry and technology of polymers are in the field of natural polymers and nanotechnology.

NEW TRENDS IN RADIATION PROCESSING OF POLYMERS

New and unexpectedly useful effects of ionizing radiation may be found in the future. One example is the recent finding of favourable influence of rather low-radiation doses on differentiation of plants grown by tissue cultures.

Future Trends in the Application of Isotopes and Radiation

The practice of radiation oncology is advancing rapidly, but even as the technology evolves, it is the power of partnership that is key to improving care. Novel collaboration with radiology, payers and the patients themselves are changing the way treatments are delivered.
