Social constructionism is a theory of knowledge in sociology and communication theory that examines the development of jointly constructed understandings of the world that form the basis for shared assumptions about reality. The theory centers on the notion that meanings are developed in coordination with others rather than separately within each individual.

Autos have become exceedingly complex computers on wheels, full of bells & whistles. Add to this fact, the safety trend where even a 20 MPH fender-bender requires an auto component to fully self-immolate to protect the occupant, the result is that vehicles no longer will be repairable, or at least not economically, beyond 10 years.
